Client
National Park Service

Location
Chinle, AZ

Size
2,000 sq ft

Canyon de Chelly is a unique national treasure, a place of unsurpassed natural beauty, a sacred ancestral home, and a living community. It draws visitors from all over the world, while Navajo, Hopi, and other Native Americans come from just down the road. LCS' work was to design a new visitor center exhibit at the monument entrance in Chinle, collaborating with the National Park Service and the local Navajo and Hopi tribes to create an experience offering multiple perspectives (cultural, scientific, and personal) on the canyon's people and history. Turner Exhibits was the fabricator for this project.
