Client
Seattle Symphony

Location
Seattle, WA

Size
2,300 sq ft

Soundbridge, the musical learning center of the Seattle Symphony, represents a radical expansion of the organization's educational objectives. Soundbridge is an interactive and interpretive setting for the exploration, creation, and understanding of symphonic music. Exhibits dealing with music theory, instruments, the science of sound, musicians, composing, and conducting are conceived to reach a diverse and potentially new audience. LCS was responsible for concept development, exhibit and interior designs, and construction administration, working closely with the SSO's project team, symphony musicians, and consultants. Partners In Design collaborated with LCS on graphic design.
